Apoptosis research, with roots in biochemistry, developmental and cell biology, genetics, and immunology, embraces this long-ignored natural law. Failure to properly regulate apoptosis can have catastrophic consequences.

The last few years have witnessed an explosion of both interest and knowledge about apoptosis, the process by which a cell actively commits suicide. The number of publications on the topic has increased from nothing in the early 1980s to more than 10,000 papers annually today. It is now well poral evolution of glucose and phospholipid metabolism in a time course study of interferon (IFN)-Q-sensitized [4<sup>7</sup>] HT-29 cells following apoptosis induction by tumor necrosis factor (TNF)-K treatment. The human colon adenocarcinoma cell line, HT-29, is a relevant model for human colon cancers expressing the MRS studies have shown increases in levels of membrane phospholipid metabolism intermediates including phosphocholine (PC), phosphoethanolamine (PE), glycerophosphocholine (GPC) and glycerophosphoethanolamine (GPE) in cancer compared to normal tissues [4, 5].

Cell death: Apoptosis versus necrosis (Review) In the recent literature, cell death is said to occur by two alternative, opposite modes: apoptosis, a programmed, managed form of cell death, and necrosis, an unordered and accidental form of cellular dying. The incorrect consequence is the overlapping of: a) the process whereby cells die,...

Apoptosis induced by H<sub>2</sub>O<sub>2</sub> was also lower in the AA-depleted cells (Fig. 1). Inhibitors of AA esterification induce apoptosis in U937 cells The data shown in Fig. 1 suggested that the presence of cellular AA is critical for the full induction of apoptosis.

Abnormal choline phospholipid metabolism is associated with oncogenesis and tumor progression. We have investigated the effects of targeting choline phospholipid metabolism by silencing two glycerophosphodiesterase genes, GDPD5 and GDPD6, using small interfering RNA (siRNA) in two breast cancer cell lines, MCF-7 and MDA-MB-231.
